news director resigns over past conduct News Director Tracy L. Crowley is resigning from WZZM in a move the new station’s leaders are labeling “no big deal.” The station’s news director resigned Monday after media sources reported he had sent a string of sexually explicit and harassing text messages while working at WZZM/Grand Rapids NBC affiliate WOOD. "I'm real appreciative that (WZZM) chose not to rush to judgment in their response to those reports,” Crowley said in a statement Monday. “Unfortunately, the texts were so beyond the pale that it would have been irresponsible not to take any action. "It was a decision I knew was the right thing to do

Features Key:

- Totally unique defensive tower defense action! The tapping of the screen will activate and deploy the 'Bridges' to create a series of box paths which form a defensive formation to combat the invading troops. Build defensive towers, place Bridges and activate them at your own tempo to create a defensive formation and block your enemies.

  Note: Bridges can be placed through the game map, while initially available only in the main game map, to help with later waves. Try to use Boomerang Bridges for your first offensive units or a Brute Bridge to clear other types of bridges for your defensive units.
- A retro arcade style experience.Tower-defense game with simple mechanics but with bold graphics and animations.

  Charge your weaponry by tapping the screen for a powerful attack or recharge it with the overheat mechanic to resist incoming units.
- Extensive real-time and accurate unit control with multiple player tactics. Once any unit is deployed the real-time gameplay begins. Place defensive towers and activate them in real-time to defend your main base in defending your own territory from wave after wave of the initial attacking player.

  Or use multiple strategies to outwit and defeat your enemy!

  Can you defend your base, to escape the inevitable annihilation?
- Intuitive Level Flow System Check out the tutorial and learn to play this defence game, well the way it should be played!
- Easy to learn, hard to master.
- Crazy addictive multiplayer action. You can play the game with your friends on a handful of different boards.

GOHOME is a game that changes the story of fantasy and medieval places. When a thief is separated from her companions, she enters the old city where the world’s legendary treasures are hidden. She has to find the three keys and solve a series of dungeons and levels before she is taken away. In the end, you will find a magician who will teach you how to use magic. You can travel through a fantasy story, where you will find new places, people and animals. You will also find a magic wand, with which you can create magic and manipulate time. There will also be other mini games, such as logic puzzles. Game Play: Go home is a free-to-play RPG style game that allows you to change the time and map levels. The story is separated into different chapters, each corresponding to one map. We are developing the game based on the characters, items, and environment that have been developed by our team over time. You can travel through many different maps, as well as the story. You can also customize your character at any time. There will be an update on December 25th, 2015, which will add the further development of the game in the future. The game will be free, but you can pay to speed up the game. This is our first game, so if you find any bugs or missing information, please let us know. Thank you very much. Main Features

What's new:

Revelation [part 3] Soft dusting of a brow, the narrative so fares Longing for the softness of the past When the sun rose along the ponds and the call of the bird was the first sound Decanting soft sadness from a birdsong There was a glimmer Of the sun Of the light Of the world And it felt so good “I’m sorry”, shakily as the raven that calls, “Your what?” The heat of his hand on my face, soft as the wind tinker-tapping at the window pane Warmness on tired cheeks, smooching softly as his eyes seek mine Deep breaths, as few as my tears laden With the warmth of the light that crawls at the edge of the curtains and the soft grass that blows in the breeze “I’m sorry to take you on such a journey” “They have nothing but our friendship and love… but as friends and lovers, its expected of you, so we just…” “Fade…” Notes We are created from such light and before that, perhaps we are just … already mortal man. Now, for what little I can save… As the parallels of Sorrowsong continue, light vanishes down the window and is swallowed by the morning. We’re only here to become an eclipse, a fruitless end. In all emotion, in all wisdom, there is a road I cannot travel. But a footpath is as viable as travelling about the world, nonetheless. As the sun on this day lightened the room, the room around me seemed to dim. The topics of the previous day were the only remnants, uneasy, as awkward as it was from a stranger. Disjointed thoughts, as understanding barely passed through fingers. “It’s so… imperfect. I wish it didn’t happen, I wish it didn’t end like this, I wish it didn’t end at all.” Yet he was here, miles away, time traveling to beyond, as much as this room he was in. As the gleams of sunlight, filtered by the lie of the window, blocked the horizon, there was an eerie feeling for all the beauty in this world for the sake of some new sin.
