According to the Baltimore Sun, the following people were arrested: * John Ramon Rodriguez, 49, of Edgewood, Md. * Jose Sanchez, 36, of Silver Spring, Md. * Andrea Rayzando, 37, of Fairfax, Va. * Rolando Jose Sanchez, 29, of Silver Spring, Md. The news release says that the group “represented the threat of harm to our troops, our citizens and our families from unvetted migrants.” They represent a new strategy out of Mississippi to protest the new immigration executive order. Back in January, two groups of Mississippians were arrested in the state capital of Jackson for carrying signs protesting the new immigration order. The groups were also protesting the actions of the Department of Justice in using eminent domain to condemn private property to build a detention camp. Mississippi seems to be the capital of the opposition to the executive order as the new tactics of resistance and the protests from this new group show. BREAKING: Hundreds of protesters at Baltimore-Washington International Airport. pic.twitter.com/2ygGpxZk2 — MSNBC (@MSNBC) February 6, 2017 BREAKING: Hundreds of protesters at Baltimore-Washington International Airport. pic.twitter.com/1y1AkuHyEM — MSNBC (@MSNBC) February 6, 2017 The protests today started around 3:30 p.m. EDT and lasted for around two hours. More are expected to show up at the airport tomorrow. One of the organizers of today ♦
